Mayor's Message

Mayor

Alberto G. Santos

Dear Kearny Residents,

Please take a few minutes to enjoy the 2015 Town of Kearny calendar provided courtesy of the Kearny Urban Enterprise Zone (KUEZ). The calendar was created through the efforts of our summer interns, Gabriela Salvador and Michael Kraus. It contains much useful information.

The first page most residents look for is the recycling calendar but there is more inside. Contact information for all of the Town departments is at your fingertips. Meeting dates and times for the Mayor and Council and the various Town Boards, sign-up dates for recreation programs and holidays when Town Hall is closed are all included on the calendar.

This year, the calendar features hometown heroes. From Kearny's namesake, Major General Philip Kearny, a Civil War hero who was born 200 years ago, to Hall of Fame Athletes, to a world renowned musician, Kearny can be proud of the outstanding people who make or have made Kearny their home. But beyond the names we all know there are also many local heroes: our firefighters, police officers, educators and church and service organization members are every day heroes who help make Kearny a great place to live.

I hope this calendar and the information included are helpful. Please also keep in mind that the goal of the KUEZ is to help grow businesses, create new jobs and, through the reduced sales tax, encourage consumers to discover what Kearny has to offer. I encourage you to patronize our local businesses and shop in Kearny.

Finally, please accept my best wishes for a happy and healthy 2015.

Very truly yours,
Alberto G. Santos

Tony Meola

Antonio Michael Meola, born on February 21, 1969, is a former goalkeeper for the United States national soccer team. Growing up in Kearny, he developed a love for the sport from his father, who had played in Italy. During his years at Kearny High School, Meola was named to the All-State team as both a goalie, in 1985, and a forward, in 1986. In addition to soccer he was a varsity winner in basketball and baseball, and was even named an All-State baseball player in 1987. Meola was so good at baseball that he was drafted by the New York Yankees.

After graduating from high school, Meola attended the University of Virginia on a dual scholarship for both soccer and baseball. During his second year in college when the National Team qualified for the World Cup, Meola knew that soccer was the path he was going to follow. He went on to have a successful soccer career, playing on three World Cup teams, as well as many years of professional soccer in the United States and England. Meola was inducted into the National Soccer Hall of Fame in 2012.

Tony Mottola

Tony Mottola was a professional jazz guitarist who released more than 50 albums during his career. Mottola attended Roosevelt School and Lincoln Junior High until transferring to Queen of Peace High School. Mottola's musical career was influenced by his parents, who exposed him to music early on; Mottola began teaching himself how to play the guitar at the age of nine. Mottola got his first professional music job just after finishing high school when he joined George Hall's orchestra and went on tour with them. This tour helped establish Mottola as a professional musician and he became one of the most wanted guitarists of the era.

Mottola worked with Frank Sinatra, Perry Como and Burl Ives, played in the orchestra for The Tonight Show, and composed music for movies and television. His most successful solo song was "This Guy's In Love With You," which hit number 22 on Billboard's "Easy Listening Top 40" in 1968.

Tony Mottola passed away on August 9, 2004 at the age of 86.

Alex Webster

Alex Webster, born and raised in Kearny, was a fullback, halfback, and head coach for the New York Giants. Webster's vivid red hair earned him the nickname "Big Red." During his time at Kearny High School he played a key role in the school's football team when they won the State Championship in 1948. Webster went on to play college football at North Carolina State, followed by one year of professional football in Canada for the Montreal Alouettes. In 1955 he returned to the United States and began his career with the New York Giants, playing on the 1956 NFL Championship team.

Webster played until 1964 as a halfback and fullback, and by the end of his career had 4,636 rushing yards, 2,679 receiving yards, and 56 touchdowns. He is currently tenth on the all-time points scored list and is the fifth leading rusher for the New York Giants.

In 2011 the New York Giants honored Webster by inducting him into their Ring of Honor as well as displaying his jersey in the Legacy Club, affirming his position in Giants history as one of the greatest. Sadly, on March 3rd, 2012, Alex Webster passed away at the age of 80.

it became a Pulitzer Prize winner and received a movie adaptation. Latham collected numerous foreign translations of the novel, which he donated to the Kearny Library.

By the time of Latham's retirement from Macmillan in 1952, he had served as both an editor-in-chief and Vice President of the company. Latham wrote several books of his own during his lifetime and passed away in 1969 at the age of 82.

Throughout his lifetime, Harold Strong Latham published many famous writers including Margaret Mitchell (Gone With the Wind), H. G. Wells (The Shape of Things to Come), Vera Brittain (Testament of Youth and Testament of Experience), Vachel Lindsay (The Congo), Edwin Arlington Robinson (Tristram), Rachel Field (All This, and Heaven Too), Kathleen Winsor (Forever Amber), James Michener (Tales of the South Pacific), Herbert Hoover (The Memoirs of Herbert Hoover), and Immanuel Velikovsky (Worlds in Collision). Latham helped develop the literary history of 20th century America and England.

Latham was born in 1887 and was a lifetime resident of Kearny. On the day he graduated from Columbia University, Latham received a telegram from Macmillan offering him a job in the Advertising Department. Latham was determined to climb upward in the company and accepted the position, earning just $14 a week. He designed, created and published his own monthly magazine, titled "The Four Leaf Clover: That Lucky Magazine." A copy of the magazine found its way to the desk of the editor-in-chief, who immediately promoted Latham to the Editorial Department as a proofreader. Latham discovered Margaret Mitchell while on assignment in the South to scout new writers. Gone With the Wind was an immediate success;

Maj. General Philip Kearny

Major General Philip Kearny was born in New York on June 1, 1815. After the passing of his parents and grandparents, he joined the military, an interest he had been harboring for most of his life. In 1837 Kearny was commissioned as a Second Lieutenant of Cavalry with the 1st U.S. Dragoons. After two years of serving with the Dragoons, Kearny went to France to study cavalry tactics, where he earned the nickname

Kearny le Magnifique (Kearny the Magnificent). After serving in the Mexican-American War, Kearny left the military and shortly after began construction on a mansion overlooking the Passaic River in Kearny, New Jersey; however, he returned to France before he could enjoy his new home. When the Civil War broke out in 1861, Kearny returned to the United States as a Brigadier General and commanded the First New Jersey Brigade, leading his soldiers into many battles. Civil War historian Harrison Hunt considered Kearny “probably the most colorful officer in the Union Army, and certainly one of its best fighters.” Sadly, at the battle of Chantilly, in Virginia, he was killed in action while investigating a gap in the Union line.

The Town of Kearny is named after Philip Kearny, who briefly lived in his Kearny mansion, Belle Grove. The mansion was torn down after it fell into disrepair, but today the General Kearny Apartments are located where Philip Kearny once lived. This year marks the 200th anniversary of his birth.

The information for this page was gathered from the Kearny Museum, located on the second floor of the Kearny Library. You can find more information on Philip Kearny and other historical people, places and events at the Museum, which is open on Wednesday nights from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to noon.

Kearny Veterans

Kearny has been home to two members of the military who have received the Medal of Honor: Captain of the Top James McIntosh and Lieutenant Vincent Capodanno. In addition to these two men, the Town of Kearny would like to recognize all of our residents, both past and present, who have served in a branch of the United States Military.

Medal Of Honor Citation: On board the U.S.S. Richmond during action against rebel forts and gunboats and with the ram Tennessee in Mobile Bay, August 5th, 1864. Despite damage to his ship and the loss of several men on board as enemy fire raked her decks, McIntosh performed his duties with skill and courage throughout the prolonged battle which resulted in the surrender of the rebel ram Tennessee and in the successful attacks carried out on Fort Morgan.

The Four Chaplains

Thomas Schnauz

Better call Saul...or Thomas Schnauz! Schnauz, a Kearny native, is the producer and writer of Breaking Bad, one of the most popular and most watched shows on cable television.

Schnauz was born in Kearny and lived on Highland Avenue until he was 10 years old. His experiences while growing up in Kearny helped shape who he is today.

Schnauz left his undergraduate studies at Rutgers for film school in order to pursue his true passion: film. Schnauz then moved to Los Angeles, where he met Vince Gilligan, Breaking Bad's creator, head writer, and executive producer. The timing was perfect, and Gilligan hired Schnauz to work on the hit American Movie Classics show.

Schnauz also produced and wrote Resurrection and Reaper, both successful television series. Schnauz is currently working on Breaking Bad's prequel, Better Call Saul.
